PROTECT TRAVELLERS GLOBALLY

Webinar Outline

As companies begin to return to some form of normality, those traveling internationally will be faced with a world that has changed; the impact of the pandemic has accentuated a series of known risks and introduced new challenges. It is essential that organizations plan for this new reality and implement all measures necessary to protect staff involved in international travel while adhering to the latest Travel Risk Management Standard, ISO 31030. The application of this standard will require organizations to comply with strict legal obligations regarding duty of care. This webinar will focus on ISO 31030 and offer valuable advice regarding implementing the guidelines and attaining legal compliance successfully.

Topics Will Include

- What Are an Organization's Legal Obligations
- Who Are the Stakeholders and Drivers of a Travel Risk Management Policy
- Introduction to ISO 31030
- How the Standard Can Assist in Achieving Duty of Care Compliance
- How to Implement the Standard
- Developing and Maintaining a Travel Risk Management Policy
